CHALLENGE N°1

TO PROVIDE DECENT ACCOMODATION
FOR THE POOR

1,4 billion people are still living below the poverty line, which means a quarter of the population of the planet.

What solutions can be used to solve the problem of housing people quickly, decently and durably, without forgetting sustainable development and technical and economic realities ?

- In the case of a rampant epidemic ?
- In the case of a humanitarian crisis following a catastrophe or conflict ?

CHALLENGE N°2

TO BE PREPARED FOR MIGRATION FLOWS

Global warming is here, we can see its effect and we know that in the next years the situation will get even worse : melting of ice caps and permafrost, rise in sea levels, heat waves, droughts, floods and hurricanes.

The results of this will cause millions of people to flee their hometown.

- How to deal with the economical, social and environmental issues, created by these mass migrations of populations.

- How to adapt and rethink the existing urbanization planes to deal with these migrations?

CHALLENGE N°4

TO SAVE BIODIVERSITY

Biodiversity is an important global issue. It is vital for our survival.
Our development and the achievement of our goals depend upon it.
Currently threatened by our activities, it will be saved only if we take immediate and efficient measures.

Mass consumption implies the destruction of our primary forests !

Which measures should we put in place in order to save biodiversity ?

CHALLENGE N°5

TO ANTICIPATE BY TRAINING

Developing countries are often affected by several problems.
Extreme poverty generates conflicts, diseases and imbalance in resources. On top of this, they lack educated people with skills, because trained people are enticed away to the rich countries.

How can we reduce those imbalances through appropriate training?

- By improving teaching in the universities ?
- By giving women access to education ?

CHALLENGE N°3

HOW TO FEED 9 BILLION PEOPLE
IN 40 YEARS TIME

With 6 billion people currently on Earth :

- 32 countries in the world are still in need of emergency food supplies.
- About 850 million people are suffering from malnutrition.
- In 2050 estimates show that there will be between 9 and 10 billion people !

Agriculture is the key to this challenge !

How to produce more to feed an increasing number of people when the surface of agricultural land is reduced because of climate change, uncontrolled urbanization and the development of biofuels?
